Further Reminiscences of the Knox Family.

By Dr. [illegible] Henry Knox.

Leaving Philadelphia on June 1, 1795, he visited his native town Boston, where on the 12th he was invited to publish in his friends and fellow-citizens a Continuing, his journey, he was publicly welcomed on the 22d by the people of Hartford, where he had fixed his future residence. He at once applied himself to the cultivation and improvement of an extensive tract of land in the then District of Maine called the Muscongus or Waldo Patent, part of which Mrs. Knox inherited from her father, Gen. Waldo, and the residue of which he had bought of the other heirs. It lay between the Kennebec and Penobscot rivers, included the site of Muscongus Fort Georges, and contained a large part of what are now the Counties of Lincoln, Waldo and Hancock. A much of this land was in possession of Squatters. It was a task of no little difficulty to gain the right of pre-emption, but this was at last accomplished by degrees, and eventually was quite successful.

His liberality and benefactions, together with the hospitalities which he dispensed and until late in life, endeared him to all who knew him. The blessing fell on all who knew him.

Pollard's History of Lincoln County contains the following description of the house of Gen. Knox, having a middle, with two projecting fronts, one looking down that river, the other up the river. Down that river in this charming spot to which he gave the name of Montpelier in the vicinity of his wife and children and of the delightful society of his friends, he passed the latter years of his life, and in the family vault of the Thomaston Cemetery his body was deposited. Here, also, his wife and other members of the family were subsequently buried.

Mrs. Knox was the daughter of Gen. Waldo, of Pennsylvania, and was born in Philadelphia, one of the most gifted ladies of the city, and one of the luminaries of the dazzling society then living, the charm having matured rather than faded by being reared above or lifted by leaping from the fourth floor to the street. She was a woman of fully developed mind with a high sense of propriety and of the duty of living. Thus, at such a time, with such a family, and as may well be imagined, the excitement among the spectators who were powerless to render assistance, to the victims, was of the most intense character. Prisoners in their own plaintively appointed home, the helpless people met death, one after another, in such a terribly tragic form as to appall the stoutest heart and cause a thrill of terror to enter the souls of those who witnessed the awful scene! Of those who escaped immediate death, Mrs. King, the youngest child and one servant, none will probably survive. The woman, widowed by the terrible tragedy, is to-night in one from the shock and her children and the servant are thought to be dying.

MR. KING'S FATAL ERROR.

Mr. King a fatal error was in retiring to sleep after having discovered flames in the basement, he believing at the time that they were fully extinguished. This was about four o'clock in the morning. Mrs. King had detected the odor of smoke and aroused her husband, who sent for a policeman. Patrolman Martin was sent from the station in response. He said to-night "When I reached the house I saw smoke pouring out of the basement. I went down the steps and found the door open. On going into the cellar I found Mr. King and two servant girls trying to put out some fire. We all went to work and with some water put out the fire, which seemed to have been caused by some hot ashes from the heater falling into a barrel of waste paper. A barrel of ashes stood side by side with the barrel of waste paper. While we were in the cellar I saw a spark of fire on one of the joists, and I at once put the fire out. I told Mr. King that we had better throw water over the entire wood work. He said 'Oh, that is not necessary.' The fire is all out.' While we were yet in the cellar, Mr. Worrington, a next door neighbor, came down. 'My house is on fire,' said he, 'full of smoke, but I could find no cause for it there, so I came in here to find out.' When we all arrived there was no longer any sign of fire. Residents started to carry water, but finally the engine arrived and when we got to the spot Mr. King's house was all ablaze. I am satisfied that the fire originated from hot ashes dropping among the waste paper."

BURNED IN SIX FLAMES.

As the soldier narrates, it was but two hours after the first fire occurred that the final fire was lighted, which completed their destruction. Mr. King rushed to the stairway to try to find that the lower part of the dwelling was a roaring mass of flames. Escape in that direction was impossible. They were cut off by the flames as I half suffocated by the smoke. To escape the latter they rushed out to the top on fourth floor. Meanwhile a fire alarm had been turned on, but for a long time there was no response. The fire from the inside was No. 18. It was covered with ice the hose was frozen still, and the firemen were numbed with the cold. All the hose possible could not get a stream upon the flames within less than half an hour, and then the stream was a weak one, reaching not higher than the transom of the front door. Ladders were used, but they failed in each instance to reach the right point, and with each failure the situation grew more alarming, and the excitement increased. All the efforts at rescue were fruitless, and it soon became painfully apparent that the only hope for the imprisoned victims was to leap from the windows. While the spectators were running like furies to the lower floor, these figures could be seen moving about the room. These were Mrs. King, the wife of Rufus King, and one child. Even through the smoke the screams of the mother with her child could be plainly seen and heard. A minute's pause for help and despair fell upon the hearts of those gathered below.

THE LEAPS TO DEATH.

"A mattress! a mattress!" was the cry. Willing hands brought the mattress from the bed of Mrs. King's daughter, Miss Hamilton, and threw it on the ground. Then Mrs. King, with her child in her arms, leaped from the window. The mattress was not there. The child was hurt, but not killed. Turning for a moment to address a word to her husband Mrs. King mounted the window-sill and deliberately jumped with as much calmness as one might jump into a bath. Her flight through the air a distance seemed to end instantly, but she was found to be unconscious and badly hurt.

He had been confined and would not leave until his family had left before him. Then he is seen at the window. Jump after jump and the cries and the hoarse of the mattress, breaking the noise more firmly, but he did not jump. 'Now!' 'Now!' did the officer again, but the form at the window never moved. Then the man came forward a little. 'He is coming,' said the officer. 'Ready!' He called to the men, as he thought the efforts were to be made. Then a puff of smoke covered him and cleared away, lifting the veil which hid his last effort for life from the eyes of those below. He struggled and came forward. One night's effort overcame him. He fell back, choked, suffocated by the smoke. He fell back, suffocated by the smoke. He fell back, suffocated by the smoke.

MISS HAMILTON'S AWFUL LEAP.

While the excited crowd was thus engaged in frantically shouting for the rescue of the terrible scene was being enacted in the front of the burning building. Miss Hamilton and the servants were in the back room and they were hemmed in on every side. Miss Hamilton groped blindly in the dark in the hope of reaching the door and escaping by way of the windows. This means of egress was cut off, however, by the smoke. The flames continued to advance, and soon reached the fourth story and set fire to the floor. Then Miss Hamilton clambered to the window-sill overlooking the area in the rear and dropped out, clutching the sill to prevent herself from falling to the earth below. The flames soon reached the window and set fire to the sill, but the young lady held on until her fingers were almost burnt off. Then she relinquished her hold and fell to the earth with a shock, which rang above the roar of the flames. She fell into the area and fractured her skull, and was dead when picked up.

THREE MORE VICTIMS.

The last to leap from the building were the servants. When they appeared at the windows some one shouted "Go to the roof of the firemen are coming." "We can't, we can't," came back from Mary Burns, who was then preparing to leap from the extreme eastern window. "Don't jump, you will be saved," frantically yelled Mr. Shaw, as he perceived the wretched girl's intention.

The words were hardly uttered when the body of the girl was in mid air and in a moment lay helpless upon the lawn ground in front. After another body lay close beside the first and the middle window was vacant. While ready hands were removing these two the third fell. The two first were quickly taken and carried to the house, 331, and the third was removed to the residence at Sixteenth and Pine streets. Both injured shortly after this place was reached. The second girl to jump died in twenty minutes after her fall. Mary Burns, who is supposed to be fatally injured internally, was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital.

The flames continued to burn fiercely and in a couple of hours the house was a mass of smouldering ruins.

QUAKER TESTIMONY.

Mrs. A. M. Dunphin, a Quaker lady of Philadelphia, has done a great deal to make known to ladies there the great value of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a cure for their troubles and diseases. She writes as follows: "A young lady of this city, while living some years ago, was thrown violently against the life line and the fall has resulted in an ovarian tumor, which grew and enlarged until both sexes feared it. Her physician finally advised her to try Mrs. Pinkham's Compound. She did so and in a short time the tumor was dissolved or caused to slough off, and she is now in perfect health. I also know of many cases where the medicine has been of great value. Philadelphia ladies appreciate the worth of this medicine and its great value."

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 25, 1885.

Portland, Lewiston, Auburn and Bath will hold their municipal elections next Monday

The Mugwump papers still continue to criticise Mr Evarts' views, a fact that ought to be very gratifying to the Senator-elect

After a lively debate in the House yesterday the Ten Hour Labor bill was passed by a large majority. The general impression, however, seems to be that it will be defeated in the Senate to-day

Proctor Knott, who is now the Governor of Kentucky, is said to be making preparations to capture the next State Legislature, and thereby secure the seat in the United States Senate now held by Hon James B Beck

It now looks as though Massachusetts would drop into line and adopt biennial elections. The House has already taken favorable action on the matter and the Senate Committee has made a report in favor of the change

The New York Commercial Bulletin, speaking from the purely business standpoint, and presumably a fair understanding of the subject, deprecates most emphatically the selection of Daniel Manning for the Treasury Department. It takes the ground that if Mr Cleveland feels compelled to reward Mr Manning for political services he should put him into an office where his natural ability and acquired power would be more in consonance with the requirements of the office. The choice of Mr Manning, it avers, would be a reckless affront to the hopes and confidence hitherto placed in the President-elect. When the Bulletin says this in double-leaded, leading editorial, it is evident that it fears that Mr Cleveland is about to give the portfolio of the Treasury Department to a mere politician, or as it puts it, to one "devoid of all those qualifications which should be found in the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States"

Monday Mr Frye scored a decided victory in the U. S. Senate, for the cause of American steamships, says the Lewiston Journal. It will be remembered that the House defeated the liberal mail pay paragraph in the post office appropriation bill, inserted for the benefit of American steamships in the foreign trade—defeated it by a very small majority—too—many Democrats declining to follow Randall's leadership in the matter. On Monday the House post office bill being before the Senate, Mr Frye offered an amendment appropriating $800,000 for the transportation of foreign mails including transit across the Isthmus of Panama, and authorizing the Postmaster-General to contract with the lowest responsible bidder for carriage of such mails at not to exceed 50 cents a nautical mile the trip each way actually travelled between terminal ports, but providing such mails shall be carried in American steamships and the aggregate of such contract shall not exceed one half the sum appropriated by the amendment. Mr Bayard, who represents purely British ideas of tariff but forgets British precedent in the matter of upbuilding the shipping interests attempted to get Mr Frye's amendment ruled out as general legislation, but Bayard was overruled, and Mr Frye's amendment was agreed to, yeas, 3[illegible], nays 18. This is a very decided victory for American steamships. The issue now goes back to the House, and it is quite possible that branch, which, by but a small majority, defeated the original proposition, of which Mr Frye's is a duplicate, with the Panama clause retained, will concur with the Senate, or yield something in the direction of some substantial aid to American steamships in the foreign trade from which our niggardly policy has almost altogether driven them. [illegible]

That the Democrats in Congress are seriously impressed with a sense of their responsibility to the country and the necessity of devoting the fleeting hours of the present session to matters of importance, is evidenced by the fact that in the Senate on Thursday, Mr Morgan of Alabama, and Mr Beck, of Kentucky, indulged in a long and animated debate as to which was the more conspicuous Democrat, says the Providence Journal. Mr Morgan averred that he had done service in the Democratic party before Mr. Beck had acquired the privileges of citizenship here, and Mr Beck responded that Mr Morgan was not of so much consequence as he considered himself. Meanwhile, the business of the Senate was suspended. And yet, it is not settled whether either of those two Democratic Senators is more concerned as to his personal standing in the Democratic party than he is about such legislation as is important for the nation. In the House, on the same day, Mr Cox, of New York, and Mr Randall, of Pennsylvania, had a passage of arms in regard to the building or finishing of a vessel of war, in which Mr. Hewitt, of New York, joined as advantageously to himself as does the person who interferes in a quarrel between man and wife. Mr. Randall having casually said that a certain thing was recommended by the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Hewitt blazed up with the interrogation "When did he become authority to this side of the House?" to which responded Mr. Randall, "I'd about as soon trust him as trust you." Mr. Cleveland should compose and proclaim the composition of his Cabinet, and remind the leaders of his party in Congress that they are making mischief for the party and for himself. Just now the Democratic family is not harmonious, its state of mind is not conducive to its own happiness and future safety any more than its whole conduct is beneficial to the public welfare

Our Augusta Letter.

[Regular Correspondence of the Whig and Courier.]

AUGUSTA, Feb 2[illegible], 1885

Saturdays and Mondays in the Legislature are the least eventful days of the week, many of the members are absent on those days and no bills of importance are passed upon [illegible]

Saturday the Committees on Railroads, Telegraphs and Expresses, and Fish and Game made their final reports. Several orders excusing members from further attendance were introduced, and on motion of Mr Goodnow, of Calais, were tabled. As the session approaches the end numerous orders excusing members are introduced and were they allowed to pass, the House would soon find itself without a quorum, and however well or poorly the business might be done by less than a majority, when it comes to a final adjournment a quorum is absolutely necessary

Last week a fierce growl went up from the members from the border counties when the bill repealing the bounty on bears came up for debate. The friends of the bill were too weak and the premium upon bruin's hide still exists.

The farmer is now to be protected in the sale of potatoes and any purchaser taking more than [illegible] one hundred and fifty pounds per barrel is subject to a penalty

[illegible] the medical bill [illegible] and if the members are to follow what appears to be the desire of their constituents the bill will be defeated. The friends of the bill claim that an erroneous idea as to its provisions exists and that when properly understood there is no objection to it

The Senate held no session Saturday and in order to keep up with the House was obliged to hold two sessions Monday, at which the several reports of committees were made among them that relating to [illegible] Senator [illegible] reported against the bill abolishing the law [illegible] Senator [illegible] a minority report. The measure will probably be defeated in the Senate though it is possible that the minority report may be accepted.

The [illegible] bill being in the hands of the Senate having been sent back from the House with a slight amendment [illegible] was tabled and will probably have to be handled roughly [illegible] to it

The bill providing for a State Board of Health came up in the Senate and was opposed by Senator Mitchell who moved its indefinite postponement. [illegible] this bill was passed. Many of the members favor the project [illegible] other would [illegible] anything looking to better sanitary provisions [illegible] approve [illegible] they feel that a State Board of Health [illegible] an epidemic should [illegible] in the State

The report of the committee on temperance will probably be contested in the House as many of the members will oppose any further legislation. Several of the provisions of the new bill are very stringent. It prohibits the publishing of liquor notices in newspapers under a penalty of twenty dollars. Also prohibits [illegible] selling in the State and [illegible] other [illegible] character

The committee on county estimates have reported and the amount ($32,000) estimated by the Penobscot County Commissioners will not be changed

The bill increasing the salary of the Clerk of Courts in Penobscot County was killed in the Senate. This suffered the fate of several bills of a similar character

A bill regulating skating rinks has been passed. It requires owners to put the rinks [illegible] with a provision [illegible] allowing municipal officers to extend [illegible] the [illegible] hearing before the committee several parties appeared [illegible] against

To-day, for the first time this session the House had two sessions. The Ten Hour Labor bill came up this morning and a minority report, which had been previously presented by Mr Hill, of Portland, was favored by him. The main features of the bill are the prohibiting the employment of children and the employment of women at more than ten hours. The amendment is practically the same as the bill, with the exception that it leaves out the clause relating to women

Mr McGillicuddy, of Lewiston, favored the bill, it having been prepared by him and argued before the committee. His speech this forenoon was applauded and was able. [illegible] he had thoroughly looked into the matter and had fully prepared himself to favor the bill

At the time of adjournment there were several members who desired to speak, and on motion of Mr Heath of Augusta it was voted to hold an afternoon session [illegible]

The bill abolishing the school district system [illegible] came up and after brief remarks by Mr Sewall, of Oldtown, it was moved to indefinitely postpone the bill, which was carried

In the Senate but little was done this forenoon. The appropriation for normal schools was reduced from $1,500 to $1,200

As the week advances the prospect of an adjournment Saturday grows less and less. There are many matters to pass upon yet and it is reported that the printing is now behind [illegible] with the additional amount of printing caused by two and possibly three sessions a day, the prospect of an adjournment this week is not bright.

There promises to be something of a fight between the Oakland and Waterville people on the petition of the people of the latter place for a charter to take water from Snow Pond in Oakland, for the supply of Waterville. Snow Pond is the great supply and reservoir for the Oakland mills and manufacturers, and the owners of the mills claim that any supply for Waterville will diminish the head so as to materially injure them, and the feeling is so great in the town of Oakland that an indignation meeting is to be held to protest against the Legislature granting any charter.

In the absence of Speaker Hamlin, Gen Mattocks, of Portland, occupied the Speaker's chair to-day. He fills the chair in a very able manner. W

A Champion of Fraud.

[Boston Journal.]

The Herald regrets that both Mr. Blaine and Mr Evarts since the election have appealed to the old sectional prejudice. The Herald cannot find a sentence written or spoken by either of these gentlemen which attempts to revive war memories and animosities. The only "old prejudice" to which they referred was the overthrow of suffrage in the South, a thing which the Herald denounced until it became necessary for the Democracy to avail itself of the conspiracy against a fair election to make sure of the election of Mr Cleveland, the Herald's candidate for President. Until that date the Herald was wont to declare that elections in such States as Mississippi were a farce and an outrage. That the same methods of suppression were practiced in South Carolina, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and in some parts of Georgia and Alabama last November there can be no doubt. Democratic leaders in the South openly avow the suppression at the last election. Democrats in Louisiana who voted for Mr. Cleveland declare that 7,000 fraudulent names on the voting lists of New Orleans were voted on to insure a big victory.

The Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican writes that papers that he is informed by the Democrats of the South that they propose to suppress the colored or Republican vote by the same methods to which they have resorted in the past. The Herald, having allied itself with that party, may now denounce those who oppose the overthrow of suffrage and the control of the Government by a small minority as it formerly denounced those who were responsible for this crime, which is greater than treason, but it will not make any difference with them. The suppression of suffrage cannot be overlooked. The Herald speaks of it as a sectional issue. It is because the crime is chiefly confined to the South and not because those who have organized it were once Confederates. They are not any more responsible for it than the Democratic [illegible] and the newspapers in the North like the Herald which defend and encourage it.

Cabinet Speculations

[Washington cor N Y Tribune.]

[illegible] that Mr Bayard and Gar[land] are certain to be called into the Cabinet by Mr Cleveland, it is [illegible] that with regard to the remaining portfolios everybody here is practically at sea. Even Mr Manning is not considered and finally determined upon. It is no secret that his appointment would be distasteful to Mr Bayard. The methods by which Mr Manning ascended the ladder of political [illegible] need not meet the cordial approval of the Delaware Senator. The [illegible] Manning could foot and replace him [illegible] Mr Bayard's [illegible] It is [illegible] however, [illegible] Mr Manning [illegible] [illegible] He is willing to [illegible] other [illegible] that he is not used [illegible] anything of [illegible] Just [illegible] doubt upon this [illegible]

[illegible] Mr Bayard [illegible] Who is Manning anyway [illegible] the President of a [illegible] It is believed to reflect [illegible] Mr Bayard [illegible] Mr Cleveland would call [illegible] representative [illegible]

Another [illegible] upon which Mr Bayard and Mr Cleveland are thought to disagree is the recognition which shall be given, if it shall be given at all to the Independents. Mr Cleveland is of the opinion that the Independent voters must be cared for [illegible] offices. Mr Bayard thinks [illegible] with [illegible]

In view of the fact that Mr Cleveland is probably [illegible] of having as his advisers men who have had some experience in the work to which they will be assigned. It is curious to note that Mr Bayard has never seen much service on the Committee on Foreign Relations and Mr Lamar, who continues to be named for the Post Office Department, has never been on the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. Garland is the only Senator who will enter upon his duties as Attorney General thoroughly well equipped. He is the leading Democratic member on the Judiciary Committee. In this respect Mr Cleveland's choice will be a new departure. Hayes took a [illegible] Secretary of the Treasury the chairman of the Finance Committee. His success took for the same place the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. Mr Frelinghuysen for a long period was a prominent member of the Committee on Foreign Relations. Mr Teller had an excellent opportunity of becoming acquainted with the important business of his present department by acting as chairman of the Committee on Pensions and the list of similar cases where Cabinet officers taken from the Senate had had special training to recommend their appointment might be prolonged indefinitely. The extent to which it is heard so far, the Mr Cleveland seems in a [illegible] as the hands of [illegible] for those [illegible] wording [illegible] the [illegible]

The [illegible] of Messrs Jackson, Franklin, Mitchell, D[illegible] of West Virginia, Jones, Morrison, Bragg and Whitthorne, Stockton, Springer and Morrison to be more [illegible] for Cabinet honors with the prospect that before morning another crop of hopeful statesmen will have sprung up. Even David Davis is now considered a possibility

The President elect Cleveland has commissioned Mr [illegible] John [illegible] to paint his portrait

The Legislature will probably not adjourn before next week

Heroic Exertions of the Life Saving Crew in Taking off and Saving the Crews

NANTUCKET, Mass, Feb 24 Schooners Fanny Ford, of Quebec, Lyndon, of Calais, Me, Abbie, of St. Johns, Charles A Ropes, of Ellsworth, Me, H T Townsend, of Pembroke, Me, and Dolly Varden, of Machias, were carried ashore on Muskeget Island by the ice on the 19th and 14th. Cutters Dexter and Gallatin took the crews off of three of the vessels and the Life Saving Station saved the rest. The heroic efforts of this crew are deserving great praise, having had to pull three miles through ice to accomplish it. In saving one crew they were out all night in a raging storm in the ice

Forty Eighth Congress—Second Session.

Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb 24 The chair laid before the Senate a memorial from the Legislature of Wisconsin, urging the placing of Gen Grant on the retired list of the Army; also a memorial from the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association praying that Congress may take steps to prohibit the disfranchisement of citizens of the United States on account of sex. The papers were laid on the table

Mr Hoar, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, submitted a written report regarding the dual ... of credentials of Senator Allison's election. The substance of the report, Mr Hoar said, was that as Mr Allison appeared to be elected in either event, it was not profitable to inquire whether a legal election was that which took place on the second Tuesday after a temporary organization of the Legislature, or of the second Tuesday after the permanent organization, and if it were necessary to determine that question it was for the 49th and not the 48th Congress to determine

Mr Cullom presented a memorial from the Legislature of Illinois asking an early and satisfactory settlement of the Oklahoma question

Mr Dawes asked unanimous consent to at once take up the bill heretofore introduced by him to authorize the President to negotiate for the purchase of the remaining rights of the Seminole, Creek and Cherokee nations of Indians to those lands, unanimous consent was given to take up the bill and in less than five minutes it was read in full and passed. It now goes to the House

Mr Jones, of Nevada from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, reported favorably on the resolution to pay ex-Senator Spencer, of Alabama, the amount of his disbursements in maintaining his right to his seat in the Senate, calendar

A resolution providing that for the remainder of the session it shall be in order to move the application of the five minute rule to amendments proposed to Appropriation bills, went over till to-morrow

The Naval Appropriation bill was laid before the Senate and referred to the Committee on Appropriations

Mr Mitchell moved to take up the first Pension bill on the calendar agreed to

Mr Mitchell then moved to ... the bill

Mr Sherman said the Senate had better proceed regularly to-day with the pension calendar. Considerable time ... as to how the bills should be considered. Finally a motion prevailed to take up in their order all pension bills favorably reported and they were accordingly proceeded with

The pension bills upon the calendar and favorably reported having been disposed of Mr Cockrell called up the House bill to provide for the settlement of the claims of officers and enlisted men of the army for the loss of private property destroyed in the military service of the United States. On the suggestion of Mr Sherman the time for presenting such claims was limited to two years, and as so amended the bill was passed

Mr Cockrell also called up the House bill limiting to three years the time for presenting claims for bounty or back pay for service in the late war or previous wars and limiting to six years the time for presenting other claims originating hereafter against the United States except in cases of ... The bill also provides that it shall not be construed to extend the power of the Court of Claims nor include claims now barred by the statute of limitation

Mr Dolph of Oregon, saying it was impossible to pass the bill at such a late hour, moved to go into Executive session. The motion was agreed to and the Senate without action on the bill went into Executive Session. An hour afterward the doors reopened and the Senate adjourned

Before adjournment ... messages from the House announced the disagreement on the Agricultural Appropriation bill. The Senate, on motion of Mr Hale, insisted on its amendments and the chair appointed Messrs Hale, Plumb and Call as a Committee of Conference on the disagreeing vote of the two Houses

House

Immediately after the reading of the journal the House proceeded to the consideration of business under the special rules

On motion of Mr ... of Oregon a bill was passed for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians on the Umatilla reservation

Mr Randall's motion to proceed to the consideration of the Deficiency bill was defeated and at 1 o'clock the House went into Committee of the Whole on the River and Harbor bill, the pending question being an appeal from the decision of the chair, ruling out the Hennepin canal clause upon a point of order

After a discussion by Messrs Henderson of Illinois, Springer of Illinois, and Stone, of Massachusetts in support of the appeal, and by Mr Turner, of Georgia against the decision of the chair was sustained 109 to 95 so the clause is eliminated from the bill

An amendment was adopted granting jurisdiction to the United States Circuit Courts to condemn any real estate or material needed in any improvement authorized by the bill. An amendment was adopted providing that the Secretary of War may decline to expend any portion of the money appropriated by this bill if in his judgment the improvement for which such appropriation is made will not be ... public benefit

An amendment restricting appropriations for the improvement of the Mississippi river to the completion of the works on Plum Point and Lake Providence Reaches was adopted

An amendment was adopted directing the Secretary of War to withhold such portion of contract price as will pay all sums due for labor performed on any improvement until it is satisfactorily shown that all laborers are fully paid. On a point of order raised by Mr Hiscock, of New York the section creating a board to be called the United States Harbor Board, was stricken from the bill

The section authorizing the Secretary of War to remove and rebuild bridges which may be an obstruction to navigation was stricken from the bill

Mr Horr, of ... offered an amendment providing that money appropriated for the improvement of the Mississippi River shall be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War and in accordance with plans approved by him, adopted, 138 to 57

An amendment was adopted providing that the appropriation for the Missouri River improvement shall be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War and in accordance with plans approved by him

Amid a great deal of confusion a number of amendments were adopted to the survey section of the bill, and it was not until 7.45 that the Committee rose and reported the bill to the House. The previous question was ordered and the House then adjourned

A Turbulent Scene in the House of Commons —A Member Suspended

LONDON, Feb 24 Mr Gladstone, in the House of Commons, this evening, moved to postpone all notices of motions until after the order of the day, resuming debate on the motion of censure be disposed of. Mr Redmond, Home Ruler, opposed the Premier's motion, and was seconded in his opposition by several Parnellites. The opposition became so noisy that the Speaker interfered and when silence had been restored he announced that he thought it was his duty to inform the House that he thought the subject had been adequately discussed. At this the Parnellites nearly all joined in a prolonged howl and in derisive cheers. William O Brien, editor of the "United Ireland," and Home Rule member for Mallow, shouted "We will remember this in Ireland" This remark was greeted with cries of "Oh! Oh! name him! name him!" The Speaker then upon named O Brien.

Mr Gladstone at once moved that the named member be suspended. Mr. O Brien jumped up and shouted, "That is the honor of my ambition!" After the uproar had subsided, Thomas Sexton, Home Ruler, rose to a point of order. He was summarily overruled by the Speaker.

A division was then called on Mr. Gladstone's motion to suspend O'Brien. It resulted, 244 for the motion and twenty against it.

The Speaker then ordered O'Brien to withdraw. O Brien arose, straightened up to his full height and exclaiming, with great sarcasm "Certainly sir,—I will withdraw from the House with more pleasure than when I entered it," strode out

The Parnellites objected to the resumption of the debate on the motion of censure because it would prevent a discussion on the motion of Mr Redmond relating to the conduct of an Irish constable named Murphy.

DEMAND FOR HEATER CARS The Maine Central Railroad Company has hired thirty New York, West Shore and Buffalo Eastern heater freight cars. They will be used for the shipment of Aroostook potatoes from Houlton and Presque Isle to Boston. The Maine Central do not have half enough cars to supply the demand. They are so scarce that common freight cars are being fitted with stoves to heat them for the potato shipments. If Aroostook should have her direct line of railroad it is claimed that the freight business on the Maine Central east of Bangor would be doubled. As it is now great quantities of freight come from points in that county.

A CAT'S HOLD ON LIFE On Saturday, Feb 7th, the water pipe leading into the cellar of J P Merrill's stable on Union street, was found to be frozen. A workman was called in to examine it and found an empty space around the pipe just beyond the wall and when he first went down stairs a cat was in there. The pipe was thawed out and was securely packed where it passes through the wall at which place it was supposed to have frozen and since that time there has been no trouble with it. Yesterday a man was passing near the pipe when he heard the mewing of a cat which seemed to come from behind the wall. He took the packing away from the pipe and reached in and pulled out the cat which had been there sixteen days without anything to eat. It was almost a skeleton but was alive. The stable men say that this is sufficient proof of the saying that a cat has nine lives

THE SHAW BROTHERS AFFAIRS On Friday last the money was paid into the court of insolvency in the matter of F Shaw & Bros. In pursuance of the decrees of the several courts. All the terms and provisions of the decrees were complied with. The remaining property in the hands of Mr Wyman was sold by him to ... for $800,000 and this was part of the money deposited. Mr Wyman deposited, including the proceeds of this sale, about $1,100,000, the balance being raised by other parties in the settlement. The current week the dividends will be paid to the creditors and this eventful and intricate case will be consigned to history. There is a general feeling that whatever the misfortunes may have been that led to the failure, and whatever faults there may have been previous to that, the matter has been managed well since both in the interests of the debtors and creditors. A gratifying result of the settlement, to many people in this State, is the starting up of the various tanneries which has already taken place and which will give employment to many men and disburse a large amount of money

The Fancy Dress Party

There was a very large and merry gathering of the skaters at the Fancy Dress Party at Union Hall rink last evening. The galleries were completely filled as was also all the available floor space. There were about thirty couples on the floor during the grand march. After that this number was greatly increased. The costumes were very handsome, the greater number having been procured of Mr Folsom, the costumer. There were, however, many private ones that were very pretty. We will not attempt to give the list of costumes and their wearers, but will mention a few of the nicest. Among the gentlemen the following characters were represented: Earl of Lester, Prince of Wales, Apollo, Prince Frederick, Sir Walter Raleigh, Prince Charles, Louis XIV, George Washington, etc. But very few of the ladies wore costumes representing historical characters. The hall decorations were under the charge of Manager J. L Zimmer. Mr. Zimmer and Mrs Morris led the grand march. Nice music was furnished by the Bangor Cadet Band stationed at the upper end of the hall. The whole party was managed by Messrs. F. H. Harlow and George E Boyd who deserve much credit for their efforts for its success.

PROPOSED NEW BUILDINGS IN BREWER.

A New Town Hall and a New Church to be Erected in the Near Future—Description of the Plans for the Hall and its Probable Cost—Incorporation of the First Parish Congregational Society and their Efforts to Erect a New Church Edifice

At the last annual town meeting at Brewer a committee was appointed to procure plans and estimates for a new Town Hall and report at the next town meeting. This committee consisted of the selectmen, Messrs George W Weeks, J A Snow, and Otis Gilmore, and H M Farrington, H P Sargent, J H Smith, Peter Banker, and H C Snow, and they are ready to report at the town meeting which occurs in a few days. A representative of the WHIG saw members of the committee yesterday and obtained a brief description of the plan of the house which they have decided to lay before the citizens of the town

The building as proposed will be of wood, two stories high and 78x90. It will occupy the same position, if built, as the present town house. The main entrance will be on Church street, and there will also be a rear entrance, the two ends of the structure being built nearly alike. The basement of the building will be thirteen feet posted, the entrance being on the northwest side where the bank will be excavated. The lower part will be occupied by offices for the town officers and ... dressing rooms, and a hall 27x45, which will be used principally as a dining hall. The basement will be constructed of brick

The upper story of the building will be twenty two feet posted and will be occupied by the hall. The stage will be sixteen feet deep, and there will be galleries on three sides. The floor will be fifty-six feet square. The hall although being plain is meant to be neat and well constructed. The plan is to heat it by steam. The estimated cost will be from $12,000 to $15,000. There is scarcely a town in Maine, of any size but that has a much better hall than Brewer. A good case is ... and it is thought that the citizens will vote to build at once. The members of the committee while not expressing an opinion recognize the need of the structure and will undoubtedly favor its erection. If Brewer wishes to keep up with the standard of other towns she will at once replace the present unsightly, forlorn ... house with a creditable structure

THE PROPOSED NEW CHURCH

The members of the Congregational society have just been legally incorporated under the name of the First Congregational Parish of Brewer. At a meeting held Monday evening they chose Col. Jasper Hutchings, Moderator; H P Sargent, Clerk; H M Farrington, Manly Hardy, and Col Jasper Hutchings, Assessors and Standing Committee; A B Skinner, Collector and Treasurer, and J A Snow, Auditor. A code of by laws were adopted. It was unanimously voted to proceed at once to raise money for the purpose of erecting a new church edifice. A committee was appointed to carry this into effect and the following were elected trustees for the fund: Manly Hardy, L ... Farrington and F A Floyd. The society voted to raise $10,000 for the erection of the edifice and as it will have to be raised by subscriptions it is thought that it will take five years. The present church edifice was built in 1828 and is the oldest in East ... Maine. It has been enlarged and improved a number of times but there are not nearly enough pews to supply the demand. A new church building is much needed and the society proposes to erect one and begin with the ... which ... its ...

AMUSEMENTS

Fuller Comedy Company

The Opera House was again filled to ... evening at the second appearance of the Fuller Comedy Company. Only two or three seats in the house remained empty. Everybody was greatly pleased with the performance. Sam Bernard's impersonations were very amusing and he kept the audience in roars of laughter. The clog dancing was very good and in fact everything was much better than is generally seen in an entertainment of that kind. The closing sketch was very funny and the audience grew quite hilarious during its presentation. The company give a matinee this afternoon and the evening entertainment as usual. The house will undoubtedly be well filled at both performances as well as for the remainder of the week. Good seats for the coming entertainments can now be procured at the box office

Margaret Mather

Miss Margaret Mather whose very successful engagement at the Boston Theatre was terminated with last Saturday evening's performance of "Leah," will make a tour of New England during the next few weeks. That she will play to the largest audiences of the season in the eastern cities and towns is already assured. Wherever the sale of seats has been opened in advance, the demand has been so great that in a few hours the entire houses have been sold out, so great is the interest taken by playgoers in this remarkably talented young actress. Her acting during her season here has justified the ... and she ... of her success made in former years, and she will be warmly welcomed whenever she returns by hosts of admirers

Notes

Miss Mather will play "Juliana" in "The Honeymoon, under the management of Mr ... A Owen in Belfast, March 9th, Bangor March 10th, Rockland, March 11th

The Bennett and Moulton Comic Opera Company, numbering about twenty five people will shortly play a week's engagement at the Opera House, presenting "The Mascot, "Olivette" "Patience," "Chimes of Normandy" "Billee Taylor," "Pinafore," The prices will be 10, 20 and 30 cents

PENOBSCOT CASE

Charles ... Thissell vs Edward E Donovan

Rescript.

This is a writ of entry, to recover "Lot 1, Range 10, in Kenduskeag," and known as the homestead of Dennis Donovan, conveyed to him Nov 6, 1843, by John Bradbury

Donovan gave three mortgages of his homestead: the first two to one Bowler, dated Nov 5, 1875, and April 17, 1878, respectively, each including other land with his homestead; the third to his sons, D W Donovan and E E Donovan (the defendant), dated June 21, 1880, of the homestead only, and on the same day the mortgagees assigned it to their sister, A W. Kimball.

The plaintiff claims the homestead under the first mortgage and the defendant under the third

On Dec 12, 1880, the defendant, then assignee of the first mortgage, gave to his sister Kimball, for a nominal consideration, a quit-claim deed of all his right, title and interest to land in Kenduskeag described as follows: "Being that part of lot ——In Range 12, ... same premises conveyed to Dennis Donovan by John Bradbury, Nov. 6, 1843, and describing his interest thus conveyed as that acquired by reason and virtue of a certain mortgage deed signed by Dennis Donovan, Nov. 6, 1875, and recorded in Penobscot Registry of Deeds, volume 459, page 383." This quit-claim deed was recorded Dec. 23, 1880. It will be noticed, that the range is erroneous and the date of the mortgage also, though the record page is correct, if the first mortgage is intended. Ten days thereafter and six days before the above quit-claim deed was recorded, to wit on Dec 22 1880 the defendant, by the usual sealed instrument written on its back, assigned in due form the first mortgage (under which the plaintiff claims) and the note thereby secured, to the plaintiff's devisor

This assignment was not received back from Providence, R I, where the defendant resides, so as to be recorded until Jan 4, 1881, seven days after the record of the quit-claim deed. As the quit-claim deed of the mortgagee's interest in a part of the land —to wit, the homestead, mortgaged, did not transfer the mortgage debt or any part thereof, and he had not entered under his mortgage, nor foreclosed the same, no title to the real estate passed thereby, and the plaintiff must have judgment on his mortgage

Lunt vs Lunt, 71 Me 377

Again the defendant is estopped to deny that the mortgage interest in the homestead passed by his assignment of the first mortgage, otherwise a species of cheating by false pretences would become legalized

Judgment for the plaintiff

Whist.

THE OPENING PLAY.

[Richard A. Proctor in the Tribune.]

There is a noteworthy difference between the views which the whist player, the player of home whist, and the player of Bumblepuppy take respecting their hands as they arrange them after the deal. In the earliest stage of practice the player looks on the aces in his hand as so many almost certain tricks; he expects to make his kings; and has hopes for his queens. His small cards he regards as worthless, as cards which he simply has to throw away to the enemy's winning cards. If he has a two-card suit, and still better if he has a singleton, then his small trumps will serve him in ruffing,—the only use for small cards known to him. He has little anxiety lest his trumps should be drawn; for an early trump lead is unheard of in this innocent incipient (and insipid) whist. Therefore he plays his aces first; his kings after the enemy (equally childlike in their play) have gotten rid of their aces; and later his queens. If he has a singleton, he plays that immediately after his aces have been utilized. He expects his partner to return his lead at once. If the enemy have led a suit of which he has the best card or cards, he listens to make these, having no idea of keeping command of his opponents' suits. When he has to discard he always chooses his largest suit, as being the one from which he has most small cards to play. When every one at the table plays this game, the result is about as amusing as any game of pure chance can be. This game is not Bumblepuppy, but the ancient form of almost whist, a dreary and monotonous pursuit, the chief interest of which seems to reside in the idea of those engaged in it that they are playing a highly scientific game. Very little scolding goes on at this dull game—unless the players are naturally ill-tempered—the only mistake one can make in it being the revoke.

Bumblepuppy is a more pretentious game altogether. In it the players are possessed with the idea that they know something about whist. They smile at home whist, which is innocent compared with their noxious system. The bumblepuppoid imagines he is a brilliant player. He rejects conventional rules as not finished off a whist genius such as he supposes himself to be. Thus he views his hand rather like the true whist player nor like the player of home whist. It is true he always leads a singleton if he has one,—most whist duffer can respond to that. But he often leads trumps early—especially if he has only one or two. His smile of triumph at the enemy when on the return of the call his partner two trumps falls for one is worth noticing. Nor does it disappear if he commonly happens in such cases (the enemy are left, long with established trumps, the other with odd trumps for company. This he regards as a mere accident.

The cases, though only one-third of the total number, in which his partner turns out to have the longest trump hand, he regards as the normal ones, and his own illiancy as throwing into his partner's hand the power of using such trump strength. The bumblepuppoid is also very fond of signalling, and I very indignant when his partner, having learned his ways, pays no attention to his signals. The bumblepuppoid does not lead out aces as a home whist player does. He is indeed to keep them back rather too long; like the player of domestic whist, he has no notion whatever of the necessity of stopping command of his opponents' suits. The whist player takes a very different view of his hand, and of the way to utilize such elements of strength as it may possess. In the first place, he considers whether the hand promises to take the leading part in the play,—that is, whether he can safely suggest to his partner the propriety of playing chiefly in his support, he has good strength in trumps, and long strong suit and a good card or two in other suits, the chances are that he will do well to play a forward game. If he has good strength in trumps, but no good plain suit, he may still have to take a leading part, by endeavoring to get command in trumps, and then helping all he can to bring in a strong suit of his partner's. But for this he must wait until he has had evidence that his partner has a long and long suit. If he has neither length in trumps nor a good suit, he may have such command in the plain suits to be able to sustain a strong defensive game against the enemy, and perhaps to help his partner effectively to take the lead. Even though he have good cards in at one plain suit, and that not a long it, still the whole game may turn on his defence of that suit against the enemy.

Lastly, if he has utter weakness, in such that he can barely make a single ck, or may even fail to make a trick, he ay yet by careful play secure the disas- ous results which must follow—in such a se—from suffering the enemy to imagine s weakness.

It will be manifest from a consideration of the different positions here suggested that the original lead is only an advantage with a strong hand, when even though partner be weak a forward game may still played. With a weak hand it is an advantage to be second, or fourth in hand, ere the play of a low card does not essarily indicate abject weakness.

But while the lead is a disadvantage to e holder of a weak hand, I do not think it any difficulty can be caught as a rule to less forward as to the original lead even from e weakest hand. In the case of the first d of any other player, the original leader, there is often room for rough conjecture such a player already knows something of the strength of the various hands. He is weak and has seen reason to think that his partner is also weak, by eight at once. In my opinion, to give up idea of leading from his longest suit erely because it is long. With very great akness he ought even, if double dummy repeatedly shows, to give up the idea of retaining the command of his opponents. By so doing he is likely to lose the nce of making the tricks necessary to ve the game. How often do we see mmanding card kept back in obedi- nce to the rule (usually excellent) that mmand should be kept over the enemy's suits, then played when it can be ruffed, and the command falling after all to the enemy while a trick has been lost in the attempt to retain it.

But while Y, B, and Z, may often with advantage disobey the rule of leading from a longest suit, it very seldom happens that A should do so. Supposing even such extreme case as that A holds nine, nine, queen in each of the plain suits, and 2, 3, 4, 5 in the third, with three suit trumps, what does he lose by leading from his extremely weak long suit or gain by leading from one or other, necessarily chosen at random, of the two diverse pairs? He may seriously compromise the game by leading out the three cards of either strong short suit, for he is apt to leave one of the enemy with several long cards of the suit to be perhaps brought in by a re-entering card in the long weak suit. Now, by leading from this weak suit you give your partner a fair chance of making a trick in your suit and showing his, in which you can give him good support, showing him by so doing that your own suit is too weak to be worth continuing. The real doubt would be whether the best trump should not be led; and in so extreme a case, with such utter weakness in the long suit, and such strong command of the other plain suits, this would doubtless be the best course.

I lay it down as a sound general principle that the original first lead should be almost always from the longest suit—unless that suit be trumps, when the best of the strong suits should be opened. If an original trump lead is suitable. But note that if you lead from a long weak suit, with weak trumps, and no re-entering cards in the other plain suits, you do this merely because such a course is least likely to hurt your partner. You are simply powerless to make anything out of your own hand. When you are not original leader it is generally better in such a case to lead the suit which seems most likely to help your partner.

WARREN LELAND,

Whom everybody knows as the successful manager of the of America, says that while a passenger from New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

See then Mr. LELAND has become cured of DYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many simple cases, and he has never yet heard of its failing to effect a radical cure.

Some years ago one Mr. LELAND's fellow-boarders testified to Dr. DYER's praise of his blood, as might perchance be needed, a lump appeared on the injured limb. Before nothing of the sort, with burning and rending pains through the leg, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of loathsome and offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the painful irritation, healed the sores, reduced the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with positive success, and, after careful observation, declares that, to his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all those various forms of blood diseases.

I have Mr. LELAND's permission to refer to whomsoever desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER's SARSAPARILLA, or to call on him personally either at his rooms in the Tremont Hotel, Broadway, 29th street, New York; or at the Parker House, Boston. THE GREAT SKIN CURES

Mrs. Smith's Case, and what the Rev. Mr. McKinley has to say about it.

Terrible Itching Humors. I have been a frightful sufferer for fifteen years, and for the last seven years of the time was confined to my bed and carried to my chair. I tried all the skin remedies I could hear of, and spent hundreds of dollars with doctors, but got no relief. I was induced to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and from the first application of the CUTICURA I felt that the disease was conquered. I continued using the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and in three months was entirely cured. I have not been troubled with the disease since. MRS. CARLOS SMITH.

I certify that the above statement is correct. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have resided in this city for many years. He is a well-known dealer in stock and grain, with that of his wife, is entirely reliable.

I have dealt in all kinds of blood purifiers, and do not hesitate to say that CUTICURA REMEDIES have given more general satisfaction than any others I have ever sold, and my sales in this line are double what they were over half a dozen years ago. Many have spoken to me about the great benefit they have received from the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and I have taken Swift's Specific myself with excellent effect. Its effects are prompt and permanent, and I have no hesitation in saying it is the best blood purifier in the world. I find the greatest demand for CUTICURA, Soap, and Resolvent.

MOSES T. W. LEE.

Allston, Sept. 6, 1880.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; Soap, 25c.; Resolvent, $1.00.

MISS BEECHER'S

Hair or Whisker Dye

Hair or Whiskers will be changed light or dark, red, brown, or auburn color. It contains no sulphur or lead, or other poisonous ingredients. Some Hair Dyes are quite fair in the beginning, but after a few applications fade to Green. Washing is NOT required after using, as in the case of other dyes. It is the cheapest and best. Sold by all druggists. Separate articles (as are most Hair Dyes), is a single combination, as I experimented with the others before I was satisfied. Now, I only sell the combination, and keep the best of the Hair which I have been brought to their notice.

Price, 50 Cents. Satisfaction guaranteed in each case, or the money refunded. Prepared only by DR. A. W. THOMPSON, Rockland, Me. Sold by all druggists.

Orders executed by mail, express or telegraph on receipt of price.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE. ONLY $1.

BY MAIL POST-PAID.

KNOW THYSELF.

A Great Medical Work on Manhood,

Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decay, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretion or excesses. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each of which is invaluable. So found by the Author, whose experience for 23 years is such as probably never before fell to the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in beveled French muslin, embossed, full gilt, guaranteed to be a finer work in every respect, and cheaper than any other work published, than one dollar. A copy will be sent by mail, postage paid, to any address on receipt of only $1, by the publishers. Illustrative sample sent for 10 cents. Gold medal awarded the author by the National Medical Association, to the officers of which he refers. Do not fail to procure this book. The Science of Life should be read by the young for instruction, and by the afflicted for relief. It will be found worth a hundred times its price to any unmarried man, or married one about to be, or any one contemplating marriage. Address the Peabody Medical Institute, or Dr. W. H. Parker, No. 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass., who may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. Chronic and obstinate cases that have baffled all other physicians a specialty. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Sundays, 10 to 12 M. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Boston, Mass., Jan. 1, 1881.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "Gentlemen: My father resides at Hoover, Va. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and to the second letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years, but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to expose the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I consulted the use of the Sarsaparilla, in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have been asked to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA."

Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully, HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.
